Homecoming Queen

Activities

Students find time for pleasure as well as study.

The Christmas Pageant takes lots of back-breaking work.

Athletics gets a boost from lunch-time ball games.

Dedication

BECAUSE of her many talents she serves her school and community in varied ways.

BECAUSE of her personal warmth and sense of humor we relax and learn in her presence.

BECAUSE of her patience and understanding we feel free to go to her in our need.

BECAUSE of her deep concern for the individual she inspires us, and we are proud of her.

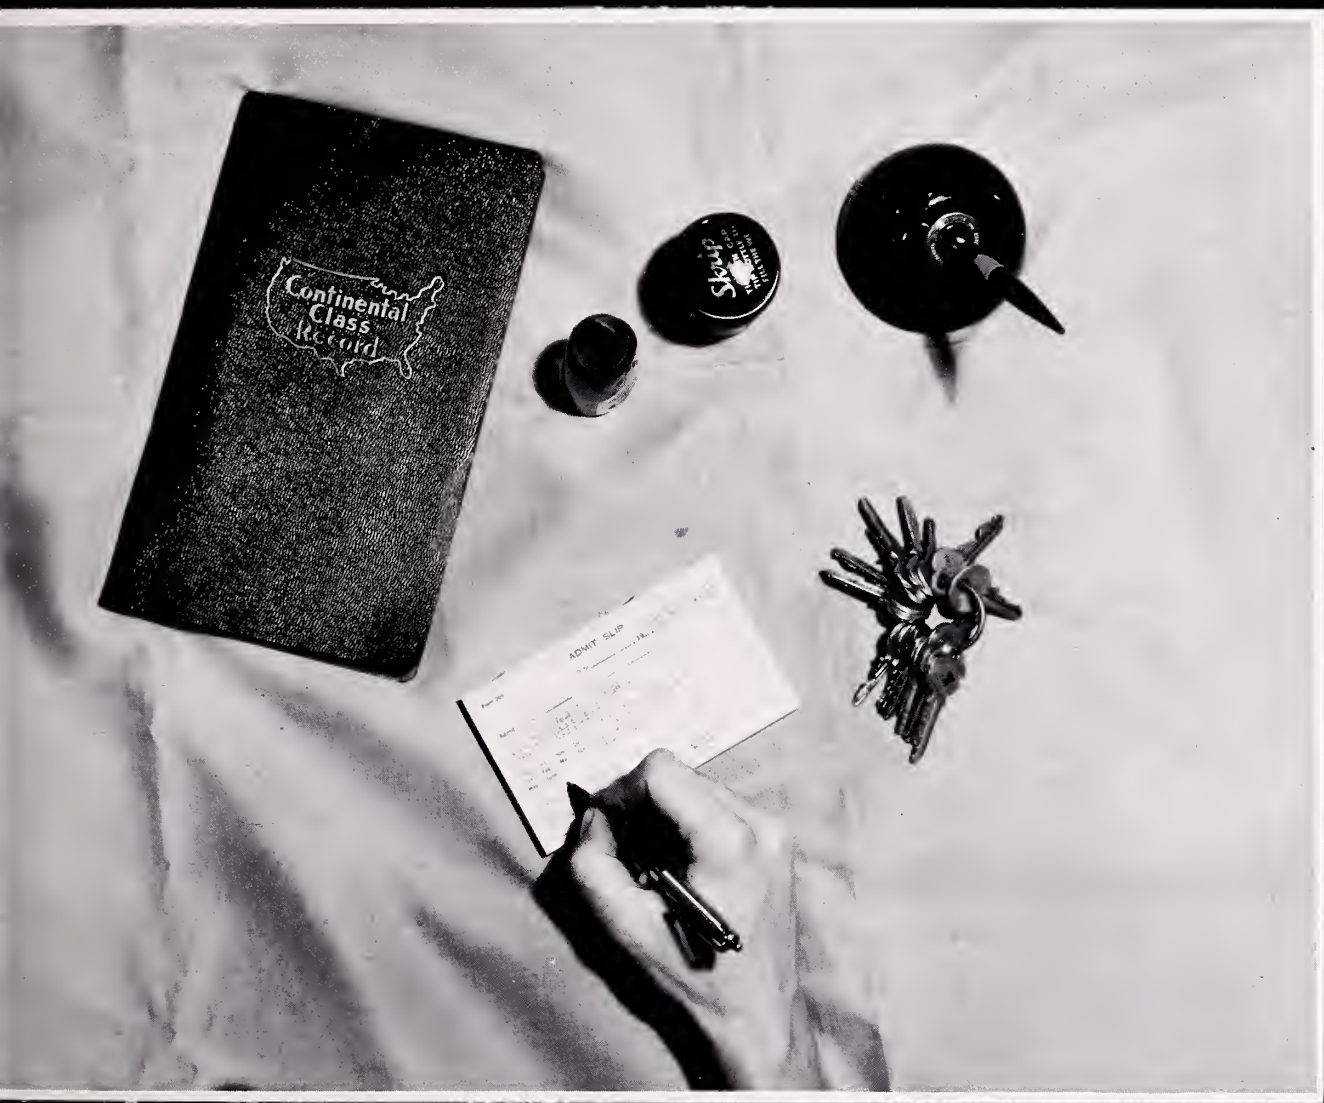

BECAUSE she believes in a power beyond man, she teaches that education must include a sense of values and a sense of human understanding.

BECAUSE OF ALL THESE THINGS

We dedicate the 1963 "ARROW"

The Worth of Man

In a demanding society the fundamentals of individual development are beset with what we term the complexities of living. Total development encompasses all of man's physical, mental, social, and spiritual attributes. When this development takes place in a society permitting freedom of thought one man's judgement of another varies in terms of his own knowledge and understanding.

Simple courtesy on the part of some is interpreted by others as weakness, the willingness to assist those less fortunate without expectation of personal gain as unreality, humbleness as lack of fortitude, and a genuine concern for the future of mankind as non-coincidental with a fixed destiny. Still, the knowledgeable interpret these basic relationships as the characteristics of truly great men.

In our relationship one to the other we must first face the realization that man is not an entity unto himself. Mere existence is accompanied by a force and a power beyond that which is human. Progress comes about through doubting the impossible and through forceful action following mental catalyzation of natural law and man's vision.

To this end every man contributes something to his own station and to his own worth. The strong are strong because the weak are weak. Those who understand do so because others do not. Man's great challenge is in that which he has not attained but hopes to. Those who succeed do so because they really believe, and failure to them simply motivates another approach. Man's innate drive and his acquired knowledge properly applied make for success.

Formal education as we know it is absolutely essential for total growth. Education, when coupled with the basic developmental factors of one's culture, including simple manners, respect for others, understanding, un-revengefulness, that which is non-cynical, the recognition of self-capability as well as self-limitation, all of these things, well balanced and apparent, truly denote the worth of a man.

The "magic time of life" has arrived for the seniors of C.H.S. In 1962 and '63 they have found an extra load on their shoulders because now they are the leaders of the school organizations and set an example for the underclassmen Now they realize that their success in studies, athletics, and leadership must be at a peak because there will be no "next year" It is this year that marks the turning point for many . . . It marks the end of one experience and the beginning of another . . . The gradually acquired knowledge and interests will be put to use as they enter an adult world of challenge and responsibility.

Transition

There is much of value in the old . . . that which has been mellowed with time, steeped in tradition, serviceable to an age, and though stately to the end becomes outmoded to progress.

Time changes that which seemed un-changeable, progress stimulates and keeps alive an ever developing culture. The grandeur of our fathers becomes a landmark to our past. Hallowed halls become echo chambers to that which has been, and the experiences of many people for many years are swallowed in memory . . . but the richness of memory is never dying. This year's bud cannot destroy the beauty of yesteryear's flower.

So it is with this grand old building . . . Cleveland High School . . . the seat of learning for the students of this area for more than forty years. The brick in its walls will survive our generation, but the functionalism of its design must bow to progress. This year, 1963, represents the last it will serve its present purpose. Beginning with the August, 1963 term, high school classes will no longer be held in this building. The future takes precedence over the past and the new will supplant the old.

The people of Russell County through progressive leadership recognize the needs of a challenging time. The erection of a new facility for education represents their faith in the youth of our area as well as their responsibility to a local way of life. Within the bounds of prudence and normal expectation, we would have nothing less for ours than for others. The painter does best with quality oils and fine canvas, the engineer of today builds best in terms of modern equipment, and the miracle drugs of this decade have revolutionized medical procedure. Education too must keep pace with progress.

To those who teach, a new and modern school is an inspiration. To those who come to learn, it represents the beginning of a new approach. To parents, it represents a commitment fulfilled and a future of high expectation.

To the old, we bid farewell; to the new, we look with pride. May we always be aware of a treasured past and in the light of a new day and a new era feel a responsibility to tradition, to heritage, and to that which is to come. Let us in leaving dilute our sadness with the brightness of a promising future.

The students assemble in front of our school to hear the big bell toll for the last time in the grand old building.

Christmas Pageant

The annual Christmas Pageant was presented on December 20. The play "A Song Is Born" was a story of how the carol "Silent Night" was inspired and written. Virgil Lambert played the leading part of Rev. Mohr. The other characters in the play were as follows: Mama Weismueller--Jenny Owen, Papa Weismueller--Barry Puckett, Heinrich Weismueller--Larry Rasnake, Herr Gruber--Larry Musick, Fraulien Kinzley--Mary Skeens, Villagers--Martha Johnston, Sandra Britt, and Brenda Cook.

Mary--Joie White, Joseph--Junior Breeding, Angels--Irene Musick, Teresa Williams, and Jenny Mawyer; Wisemen--James Shell, Jimmy Amos, and Richard Cook; Shepherds--Danny Conley, Richard Shell, Pete Simerly, and David Simerly.

The choir added to the pageant by singing "Silver Bells", Rudolph, "The Red-Nosed Reindeer", "Little Drummer Boy", "Joy to the World", "Silent Night", and "O Come All Ye Faithful".

Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders did a good job of bringing color and pep to spectators this season. Uniforms in the new school colors of Columbia blue and white brightened the scene as the girls cheered the boys to their best efforts.
